Victorious Voice Magazine Partners with JEJR Designs

In a Business Venture to Reverence and Honor God

Mount Clemens, MI, July 16, 2009 — Founder and Editor-in-Chief of Victorious Magazine, Brooks J. Young attributes her ability to publish her own printed magazine to that of God and the partnership she has recently established with JEJR Designs. Ms. Young states, "JEJR Designs is true to producing the highest quality of work in a truly professional manner. Collaborating with JEJR Designs and sharing in the same Christian ethics of working for God's people, businesses and churches is a testament of their Christian belief. It is a blessing for us at Victorious Magazine to receive their promotion graphics, designs and business expertise that I know will lead the magazine one step further to success.

JEJR Designs deals solely with churches and positive businesses, such as Victorious Magazine. They are a family-owned, Christian-based company who believes in putting God first in all that they do. It comes across not only in their designs but in their exceptional customer service. Their specialties include creating effective advertisement and marketing material to help your event, business, or product reach its fullest potential. They have over 10 years of graphic design experience.

Victorious Magazine has a goal to become a trusted resource for women seeking real life solutions to everyday issues. Its mission is to become a vital resource to readers by helping its subscribers deepen their relationship with God, finding greater fulfillment and success in life and being introduced to other women who have created a life of success using the talents, gifts, and resources God gave them. Sharing the same Christian beliefs and high standards of business and professionalism will further improve both businesses in a dramatic, Godly way. Victorious Magazine will release its print issue September 9, 2009, again thanks to the God sent business partnership of JEJR Designs.

About Victorious Magazine

Victorious Magazine (<http://www.victoriousmagazine.com>) is the cornerstone of our public communication, providing access to articles representing our victorious message! By reaching out directly to each woman and touching on the concerns that are on her heart we are able to encourage her to press on toward her dreams to live victoriously, taking control of her own destiny and achieving her true purpose. Our editorial content is designed to validate the importance of the things that appeal to her on all levels - personally, professionally, spiritually, and mentally - in a way that only women can understand. Our article categories include Destiny & Purpose, Inspiration & Empowerment, Stewardship, Victorious Living, Victorious Wellness, and Style & Grace. The publication launched its digital version March 30, 2009. The first print issue of VICTORIOUS MAGAZINE will hit the newsstands September 2009, with an initial circulation of 25,000.
